WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—For North Carolina: Rain Sunday. Monday clearing, with colder in west portion, light variable winds becoming fresh southeast.

Have you learned to write it "1904" yet?

All who are sorry that the snow is melted, hold up your hands!

The Birmingham News suggests that the United States send her mules to the Far East and her asses to Panama.

They now tell it on Mr. Bryan that he intends supporting W. R. Hearst for the Presidency. If true, it will prove the worst break of all.

"Prophet" Dowie makes the announcement that he will accompany Christ to earth within the next one hundred years and help Him reign during the millenium. Thar now.

Mr. Cleveland has the sympathy of all in the loss by death of "Baby Ruth," his first born. May He who doeth all things well be a comfort to the aged ex President in this his sore affliction.

Mr. Simmons in a set speech in the Senate on Friday insisted on an investigation of the postoffice robberies. The Republicans seem determined not to permit an airing of the frauds to be had at present, however.

Atlanta Journal: A Georgia woman was fatally burned while on her knees in prayer, but don't permit this to discourage getting down on your marrow bones, O perverse and stiff necked sinner! Yes; lightning sometimes strikes churches, too!

The Norfolk Landmark speaks of Governor Montague's "fine record in the pardoning department." North Carolina's Governor is hard to beat at anything, pardoning criminals and all, he having turned loose 214 evil doers in three years' time. Charlie should hold up on this practice for awhile.

The Savannah News tells of an Ohio man who fell heir to a large fortune, after living in comparative poverty all his life, strewed big bills all over his floor and walked on them. He could think of no better way in which to convince himself that he was really the master of wealth.

Nearly 18,000 men have been laid off in the last three months by the fifteen railroads entering Chicago. The announcement is followed by the explanation that there had been a general trimming to meet the conditions evidenced by the discharge of 100,000 operatives in New England and the cutting of the pay of 150,000 employes of the United States Steel Corporation. Yet we are told these be prosperous times!

The Mount Olive New Hotel, (Hotel Olivette) will open Jan. 3rd, 1904. Hotel strictly modern. Rates $3.00 per day, special rates by the week.

TO PROTECT LIVES.

The Fire Commission Taking Precaution to Save Lives in Case of Fire.

LARGE BUILDINGS INSPECTED.

Number Visited Yesterday by the Mayor, Chief of the Fire Department and Chief of Police—Fire Escapes Must be Provided.

Since the horrible fire tragedy in the Iroquois theatre at Chicago, Mayor W. E. Springer has deemed it proper to see that the city ordinances to protect lives from fires are complied with.

The ordinances require buildings of a certain class to be equipped with fire escapes, and a few years ago some buildings were so equipped. Mayor Springer says he feels that it is his duty to enforce these wise precautions and all notices issued must be complied with by property owners in a reasonable length of time.

Yesterday the fire commission, composed of Mayor Springer, Chief of the Fire Department Charles Schnibben and Chief of Police J. J. Furlong made an inspection of a number of buildings, with a view to the protection of lives in the event of fire. The buildings inspected were the new office buildings of the Atlantic Coast Line; the Seaboard Air Line's new freight warehouse; Gieschen Bro.'s Atlantic Inn building on Front and Red Cross streets; the Y. M. C. A. building; the Elks Temple; George O. Gaylord's stores and new block; the Murchison National Bank building; The Orton Hotel; Hibernian Hall; Odd Fellows' Hall, and Germania Hall.

To-morrow at 11 o'clock the fire commission will meet and consider what steps to take in line with their inspection. It is stated that in nearly every instance recommendations will be made and orders issued to the owners of the buildings mentioned.

Other buildings are also to be inspected.

CATHERINE KENNEDY HOME.

Donation Day Changed to January 15th. A Few Words in Behalf of This Noble Charity.

For satisfactory reasons the Ladies' Benevolent Society deems it expedient to change their donation day from May 3rd (the anniversary of the opening of the Catherine Kennedy Home) to January 15th.

They particularly wish to receive all membership dues for the coming year on this day, rather than have them come in at different times during the year. This will greatly simplify the work of the treasurer as will be readily seen.

Also the special donations, which have hitherto been sent on May 3rd, will in future be received on this day. A committee of ladies will be present to receive the annual dues, gifts, etc.; also visitors, and they hope to have a large number.

They particularly wish to see a goodly number of the ladies who have come to the city within the last two years, feeling assured they will be interested in this Home for aged women.

For the benefit of the strangers in our midst the statement is made that the annual dues are only $1.00, and that the membership in this society does not mean work, for there is but little of that, but a support for the inmates of the Home. The meetings are held every month at the Home at which time a large attendance is desired, but regular attendance on the part of the large membership is not obligatory. This work is much more important than many seem to think, and a visit there on our donation day will convince the most sceptical.

It will be a pleasure to the management to give information on all points—questions of any kind may be asked and the whole building can be inspected.

They earnestly hope this day will be borne in mind and observed by a large proportion of our citizens, both ladies and gentlemen. EX. COM.

FRIGHTFULLY SHOT.

Geo. Cardell, Colored, Dangerously Wounds Himself While Hunting Yesterday.

George Cordell, a colored youth about 18 years of age, was taken to the James Walker Memorial Hospital last night in a frightful condition.

Yesterday afternoon, while hunting in East Wilmington, he was dragging his gun behind him while going through some thick undergrowth, and it was discharged, sending a big load of shot into his back just under the base of the right lung. The shot made an ugly wound, tearing a great hole in the muscles of the back and exposing the chest cavity. One of his ribs was also injured by the shot, but it was not broken. Cardell was by himself when the accident occurred, and he dragged himself out of the woods to a house, where he got assistance to come into the city. He lives at 612 North Tenth street, near the hospital.

Dr. Akerman, physician and surgeon in charge of the hospital, dressed Cardell's wound, and the doctor states that while it is a very bad and serious injury it is not necessarily fatal.

Ran Over a Child.

At Second and Princess streets yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock, Richard Harrison, colored, who was driving a horse and buggy, ran over the little five year old child of Mr. Joseph Goldstein who lives on Market street between Front and Second streets. The child was considerably bruised but was not seriously hurt.

Sergeant G. H. Ward went down from the city hall and arrested Harrison. He will have a hearing before Mayor Springer to-morrow at noon.

The Tragic End of Geo. C. Foshee.

The funeral of Mr. Geo. C. Foshee, who committed suicide by taking laudanum Friday night, will take place this morning at 5 o'clock from his late boarding house, 113 Market street. The interment will be made in Oakdale cemetery.

The tragic end of Mr. Foshee excited deep regret among all who knew him and universal sympathy is felt for the wife, whom he leaves without means among strangers.

To Preach in German and English.

The Rev. J. H. Orr, the Pennsylvania minister who is to preach to-day at St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church, is said to be an intellectual and scholarly man. He is six feet six inches in height and is a commanding figure as well as a forceful preacher. He will preach in German at 11 A. M. and in English at 7:30 P. M.

Returned to Wilmington.

Mr. I. W. Davis, who has been away from the city for three years, and who for a year and a half has been working with the Goldsboro Lumber Company at Dover, Craven county, has returned to Wilmington to reside. He has accepted a position with the Angola Lumber Company, and his friends are glad to see him back here again.

To Beautify the Hospital Grounds.

The grounds in front of the James Walker Memorial Hospital have been ploughed up and will be sodded for a grass lawn. Flowers will also be planted to beautify the grounds, which have recently been enclosed with a new open fence.

ANNEX TO PAVILION.

The New Hanover Transit Company Increasing Accommodations at the Beach.

BUILDING OF TWENTY ROOMS.

Foundations Already Laid—Bath Houses to be Enlarged to 80 Sprinkle Bath Rooms — Orchestra Engaged. The Visitors Last Season.

In the midst of Winter prepare for Summer. That is a new axiom which Captain John W. Harper, general manager of the New Hanover Transit Company, has adopted with reference to that delightful resort, Carolina Beach.

Captain Harper believes in being ready when the beach season opens, and the popularity of Carolina Beach was such last season that he is already getting ready for the increased patronage that the steamer "Wilmington" and Carolina Beach is destined to have the coming season. The past season was a big one for the beach and some idea of the public favor which it has can be judged from the fact that the steamer "Wilmington" carried down 43,000 visitors last Summer.

Realizing from the large patronage last season, that the handsome and comfortable pavilion erected last Spring is inadequate to accommodate the thousands of visitors who seek the refreshing breezes and fine surf bathing at Carolina Beach, the New Hanover Transit Company decided to erect an annex of considerable proportions, adjoining the pavilion on the south side.

The foundations for the new building have already been laid and it will be completed in sixty days under the supervision of Mr. Thomas McGee. The new building will be thirty feet wide and sixty feet long and will be two stories in height. It is to contain twenty nice rooms—ten on the first story and ten on the second story. On each story there is to be a six-foot passage in the middle of the building and five rooms will be on each side of the passages. Piazzas eight feet wide are to run clear around the building on both stories.

The rooms are to be ceiled, those on the first floor to be used in connection with the present pavilion for the use of excursionists and people who desire to spend the day at the seashore. The ten rooms on the second story are to be nicely furnished for sleeping rooms in order to accommodate people who wish to spend the night at the seashore.

Mr. Charles Anderson, who formerly conducted the "Only Restaurant," has leased the pavilion for the coming season and will conduct it on the European plan. He expects to supply his tables with the choicest delicacies the ocean and the market affords, and we are sure this facility for accommodating visitors to the beach will greatly add to its already flattering popularity, not only with the people of the city, but with the thousands of excursionists who are partial to Carolina Beach.

Captain Harper is also having the bath houses greatly enlarged. There will be 80 bath rooms with fresh water sprinklers, so that there will be plenty of rooms for surf bathers at all times.

The railroad from the steamer's pier to the beach is already being put in good shape from beginning to end and the cars are being overhauled and painted for the season of 1904.

Among the attractions which Carolina Beach will have throughout the entire season will be a fine orchestra. The band will furnish music for concerts and dancing every day at the pavilion.

Among the Shipping.

The German steamship "Elsa," Captain Ritter, arrived in port yesterday from Hamburg, Germany, with a cargo of kainit for the Armour Company. The vessel is consigned to Alexander Sprunt & Son, and will take out a cargo of cotton outward bound.

The British schooner "Mabel Darling," Captain Sweeting, cleared yesterday for Nassau, British West Indies, with a cargo of 366,000 shingles, 55 barrels tar, 3 casks spirits turpentine and 1 barrel rosin, valued at $1,664. Vessel and cargo by J. A. Springer & Co.

The Clyde Line steamship "Carib," Captain Chichester, cleared yesterday for New York with a miscellaneous cargo.

The American schooners "Adele Thackera" and "Herald" crossed the bar and sailed yesterday at 11 A. M.

Catch Your Train To-day.

Don't forget that the new schedule on the Atlantic Coast Line goes into effect to-day. The train for Charleston will leave this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock instead of 4:45 P. M., and the train going north will leave at 6:50 P. M. instead of 7 P. M. See official schedule for other important changes. The schedule will be found on the second page of this morning's STAR.

Change in Time for Closing Mails.

On account of the change of schedule to take effect on the Atlantic Coast Line to-day, on and after to-day (Sunday) mails for dispatch north will close at 6 P. M., for the south at 3 P. M. and by the Atlantic & Yadkin railroad at 8:40 A. M.

DISTRESSING OCCURRENCE.

Col. Walker Taylor's Little Two-Year-Old Daughter Terribly Burned Yesterday.

It is painful for the STAR to note a distressing occurrence yesterday morning at the home of Col. and Mrs. Walker Taylor, 714 Market street. Their little daughter Catherine, two years old, was terribly burned, her clothing having caught fire from a match which she got hold of in some way and struck in her childish innocence.

In a moment after the burning match came in contact with her clothing, the little girl's dress was in a blaze. The nurse was near her and was thoughtful enough to wrap her in a flannel skirt. This doubtless saved the little one's life, but she was severely burned on the right arm below the elbow and her hair and eye brows and lashes were singed. Fortunately her face was not burned and she did not inhale the flames.

The sufferings of the baby were severe, but the hundreds of friends of the parents will be glad to learn that her burns were not fatal.

DR. ALDERMAN'S POPULARITY

Intellectual Wilmingtonian Lionized in New Orleans—Enough to Turn an Ordinary's Man's Head.

The following from the Charlotte Observer concerning a Wilmingtonian will be read with pleasure by his host of Wilmington friends:

Mr. F. Brevard McDowell has recently returned from New Orleans, La., where he met Dr. Edwin A. Alderman, formerly president of the University of this State, and now president of the Tulane University. Of course, McDowell did other things while in New Orleans besides meeting Dr. Alderman, an old friend; but any North Carolinian who has come back from New Orleans in the past year and can say: "I saw 'Tony' Alderman," is able to rest on his laurels for a little while.

Mr. McDowell confirms the previous reports about the magnitude of Dr. Alderman in New Orleans. When Dr. Alderman faces his own student body he is cheered; when he enters a theatre he is cheered; and when he is a guest at a dinner party or a reception he throws around clever bon-mots that are remembered and quoted, and serve to increase his intellectual and social fame. In a word, it seems to be pretty generally admitted that Dr. Alderman is the lion of the hour in New Orleans, and his popularity is of the enduring sort.

"But he bears his honors meekly," declared Mr. McDowell. "You know that odd habit of his when he is amused? He leans forward and places his head on your shoulder and just shakes with mirth. Well, he came to me one morning in the club, placed his head affectionately on my shoulder, and while he gave way to utter merriment he told me the same jokes that I had told to him twelve years ago. The jokes were revamped and embellished somewhat, but they were the same old jokes, my old jokes."

BEST OF THE SEASON.

"The Earl of Pawtucket" at the Academy To-morrow Night—Praised by Press.

The Norfolk and Richmond papers are loud in their praise of the magnificent production of "The Earl of Pawtucket," which comes to the Academy to-morrow night. The Landmark of the former city says:

"Norfolk had its first opportunity last evening to witness the play of the year, Augustus Thomas' comedy, 'The Earl of Pawtucket,' at the Academy of Music. When it is said the play of the year, it is meant the piece that New York in no uncertain manner acclaimed as such. The piece that broke several records and made in one night the name of a comparatively unknown entity, Mr. Lawrence D'Orsay, who essayed the role of Lord Cardington in the Broadway production. It may be said at the outset that had Mr. Frank Monroe been fortunate enough to have been cast for this particular part in New York, he would unquestionably have scored as completely as did Mr. D'Orsay. Mr. Monroe is a clever player. It is due largely to the fact that Mr. Monroe has created in Cardington a unique figure to the stage. Cardington is the highest type of an Englishman, and not the silly person usually presented as a representative of the British nobility. That Monroe makes so much of the role is of course highly creditable to him—but hats off to Augustus Thomas, the man who wrote the play. It is remarkably fluent, intelligible and altogether delightful comedy, is "The Earl of Pawtucket." The idea of a man wooing a divorced woman under the name of her former spouse is a theme humorous enough in itself, but Thomas has treated it so adroitly that its results are indescribably ludicrous. It is really a great comedy, probably the greatest on the American stage to day, and Mr. Kirke La Shelle has given it a strong cast and a magnificent production."

The sale of seats will continue at Plummer's until 6 o'clock to-morrow afternoon.

Stabbing Affray.

In a fight in "Dross Neck" last night between negro denizens, Winnie LeGrand was severely stabbed in the forehead by a knife in the hands of Mary Bryant. Bryant was arrested and locked up at the station house for a hearing before Mayor W. E. Springer to-morrow. The women were drinking.

SUNDAY MORNING, JANUARY 10.

THE COLOR LINE IN PHILADELPHIA.

Philadelphia is the most recent contributor to the argument of those persons who hold that race prejudices are inherent rather than geographical in their origin. One George Ryan drew the color line there the other day in circumstances which are worthy of comment. It is fair to presume that Ireland was the place of Mr. Ryan's birth, but there is nothing in the record to show that he had not resided in Philadelphia long enough to imbibe both the prejudices and predilections of the people of that city. But in any event the fact that he was foreign born and Pennsylvania reared is sufficient evidence that he had not been subjected to the influences which are popularly supposed to be the well spring of race prejudices in this section of the country. It may, indeed, be taken for granted that Mr. Ryan approached the race problem with an unbiased mind, and the testimony of his conduct is for that reason all the more forceful.

The incident in question is reported by the New York Sun in the graphic and picturesque language so much in vogue with the correspondents of that great newspaper. A person by the name of Charles Taylor died at his residence, 215 Wolf street, Philadelphia; and it was proposed to hold funeral services over his remains which would be characterized by some pomp and circumstances. The task of conducting the physical part of the services was let out to Undertaker Ganker, who finding himself short of hearses for the moment engaged one from Undertaker Kimmeria. Ryan was placed in charge of the hearse and directed to go with it to the residence of the dead negro. The pallbearers bore the body of Taylor from the house. Ryan did not observe the color of the mourners till they were about to deposit their burden in the hearse. Then, according to the Sun's correspondent, he said: "That don't go. I'll not "drive a nigger, dead or alive;" whereupon he whipped up his horses and disappeared down the street, leaving the pallbearers standing on the pavement. The Sun further declares that Mr. Ryan subsequently said: "If a dead nigger "stands between me and my job, I don't want it. It's him to drive me, not me to cart him."

The undertaker ordered Ryan back to the Taylor residence and discharged him when he refused to obey. Taylor's wife was in some way or other informed of Ryan's remarks regarding the corpse of her husband. She fainted immediately, but quickly recovered consciousness and sent for an attorney that she might begin a suit for damages against the undertaker. And so the matter stands. It is chiefly remarkable because of its locality. Philadelphia is supposed by many persons to yearn as earnestly for the obliteration of all race distinctions as does Boston. It has been frequently charged, however, that both of them were more color blind in politics than in practice. The attitude of Mr. Ryan, however, does not appear to support that view. Despite the nationality of that gentleman there is nothing to indicate that his conduct was dictated by political considerations as to the relative social relations which should exist between even a Philadelphian and a negro, dead or alive.

A BLOW AT PRIVILEGE.

We are very much afraid that the Supreme Court of North Carolina is destined to sanguinary if not ruinous conflict with that artistic fraternity composed of the gentle men who prepare headlines for our great metropolitan newspapers.

Some days ago a prominent citizen of McDowell county, in the State mentioned, challenged another and of course equally prominent citizen to meet him on the field of honor; weapons, fists; distance, anything the combatants chose to make it. The encounter ensued according to programme, and the gladiators pounded, gouged, and kicked to the best of their ability. A low-browed, sneering constable, without a spark of romance in his soul, hauled the fighters before a magistrate, who, in an interval of wife-beating, chicken-stealing, &c., fined them as common ruffians and hoodlums. The case was appealed, step by step, until it reached the Supreme Court of the State. The two prominent and influential citizens of McDowell county protested that they were not disturbers of the peace. They had fought a duel. They were, therefore, duelists. And the mantle of Southern chivalry enfolded them, according to their attorney's brief. But the Supreme Court had its own ideas of Southern chivalry, and fist fights—the good old knock down and drag out style of thing—were not included in the court's philosophy of the code of honor. The tribunal found no error in the constable's original hypothesis, and the episode went back upon the list of "drunks," "disorderlies" and "sluggings."

It is our opinion, however, that the powerful fraternity of metropolitan headliners will not tamely submit to this invasion of their territory. For years past—for so long that the custom has received the sanction of general acceptance—fights of all kinds have been spoken of as duels in the ornamental department of journalism. No matter what the weapons, or the distance—whether bludgeons at five feet or brickbats at fifty—and without the slightest reference to the number of persons engaged in the affray, almost any kind of a scrimmage could be sure of a romantic title. "Duel in Louse Alley," "Duel at Jimson Cross-roads," "Duel in a New York Sewer," &c., &c. Everything went. They were all duelists, from the Hon. Claude Mermaduke to One-eyed Mike. And now, does anybody imagine that this flowery field of metphor, this cornucopia of alluring euphemism and high-sounding phrase, is to be abandoned by its spirited and fearless occupants at the order of a local court? For our part, we say "Never!" And we wish to be understood as saying it in thunder tones.—Washington Post.

This would be an increase of nearly 20 per cent. over the record crop of three years ago.—Savannah News.

—— The President's message, far from being the end of debate, is only the beginning of it. He has not answered the searching questions put to him by Senator Hoar. He passes over entirely his commission of an act of war against a friendly nation. This and his other violations of law and precedent are the real points at issue. They cannot be hidden by the President's cloud of irrelevancies. The question before Congress and before the country is simply whether this great nation is willing to twist a treaty, to turn its back on admitted precedents and to violate international law, all in order to win a mean and mercenary advantage.—New York Post, Ind.

Relieved His Feelings.

Brander Matthews received tickets for the first night, of course. Did ever an author bring out a play in New York without sending tickets to Professor Matthews? Contrary to his custom, Mr. Matthews made use of his passes on this occasion. He was down town. He wanted to see the play. The house was sold. So why not? The next day his opinion was eagerly called for by one of his classes at Columbia.

"Well, gentlemen," said the literary freethinker, "the play was in four acts, and I was there as the guest of the author. After the first act the audience sat silent, and I applauded. After the second act I sat quiet while the audience hissed."

The professor took a long drawn and reminiscent pull at his cigarette, then held it at arm's length and flicked off the ashes.

"And the third act?"

"Well, gentlemen," and there was a gleam of satisfaction in the professor's eye, "after the third act I went out and bought standing room and came back and hissed too."—New York Times.

A Korean Pageant.

Li Hsi, the emperor of Korea, scarcely ever stirs out of his palace. He is supposed to make a royal progress through Seoul once each year, says Alfred Stead in Harper's Magazine, but does not always do so. This progress is gorgeous with all the tawdry display of orientalism tinged with occidental ideas wrongly understood. The most magnificent thing about this display is the bill which is presented to the treasury to defray expenses. Sometimes this amounts to as much as 700,000 yen ($350,000) for the one day's entertainment, a vast amount when the purchasing power of a yen is considered. Few or no details are given, and when they are they often partake of the nature of a farce. Such is the item of champagne for the foreign representatives, which figured once at 70,000 yen ($35,000)! Of course most of these vast sums are misappropriated, and the emperor has his share.

A Story of President Hadley.

A story is told in faculty circles at Yale which goes back to 1891 for its time setting and concerns itself with President Hadley's manner of asking the late Governor Luzon B. Morris of Connecticut for the hand of his daughter in marriage. Professor Hadley made the call which was to determine his future just at the time when the re-election of Governor Morris was in grave doubt and the courts were debating the matter and the legislature refusing to ratify it. "What can I do for you, Arthur?" asked the older man kindly, suspecting that his daughter was the reason of the visit.

"I have come to you," said Professor Hadley, making his famous forearm gesture, "to know definitely whether or no I may call you governor."

Saved from Terrible Death.

The family of Mrs. M. L. Bobbitt, of Bargerton, Tenn., saw her dying and were powerless to save her. The most skillful physicians and every remedy used failed, while consumption was slowly but surely taking her life. In this terrible hour Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption turned despair into joy. The first bottle brought immediate relief, and its continued use completely cured her. It's the most certain cure in the world for all throat and lung troubles. Guaranteed bottles 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at R. R. BELLAMY'S drug store.

Dr. PIERCE'S FAVORITE PRESCRIPTION FOR WEAK WOMEN.

A SURGICAL DEVICE

[Original.]

"Young gentlemen," said the great surgeon, concluding his address to the graduating class of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, "let me impress upon you one caution. When you have done everything in your power for a patient with the hope of benefit, never cease to apply some new device, no matter how little connection it may have as a remedy with the disease. By this course you will gain time, retain the confidence of the patient and keep him from sinking into despair."

The great surgeon bowed to the class as an announcement that his address was finished, and the members before passing out each waited his turn to take his preceptor by the hand. One hung back till the others had all left.

"Dr. Kenworthy," he said, "for the last time I ask your consent. I have no desire to rob you of the daughter you love, nor will she marry me without your leave. I hope you will not continue your opposition."

"I shall have no opposition to make when you have built up a practice."

The young man departed, sorrowful; the doctor took up his hat and went to the hospital to perform a critical operation.

Ten years later Dr. Kenworthy was traveling in the west and stopped in a little town in the Rocky mountains. Being troubled with indigestion, he took a vial from his satchel, held the bottle in one hand, a spoon in the other, and, drawing the cork with his teeth, held it there while he dropped the medicine in the spoon. A violent hiccough caused him to relax his hold on the cork and at the same time draw it into his windpipe. In a few minutes the household, having been summoned by a violent pull at the bell, were gathered about the doctor.

Dr. Kenworthy of course knew very well what should be done in his case, but with the cork in his windpipe, purple in the face, his eyes bulging out of their sockets, he was not only unable to articulate, but his faculties were momentarily impaired. The country doctor got the patient into a chair and began a succession of efforts to extract the cork. They were not successful, and it began to look as if the end was near. Suddenly the mountain practitioner's eye lighted as if with a new hope. Throwing down his forceps and his hooks, he showed by his expressive countenance every indication that he had solved the problem. The bystanders wondered by what new method the doctor was about to win success, and the patient looked at him wonderingly.

"Take off his coat!" cried the younger doctor imperatively. Two attendants seized Dr. Kenworthy and raised him violently, while the landlord divested him of his upper garment.

"Off with his collar!"

This, too, was accomplished with the haste and energy of despair fringed with hope.

"Some beeswax!"

The house was hunted, but no beeswax found. The landlady brought in some honey, which as soon as the country doctor saw it he exclaimed joyfully:

"The very thing; far better than beeswax; more soothing; more to my purpose."

Dipping his fingers into the dish, he broke off a piece of the comb, the cells filled with honey, and began rubbing it upon Dr. Kenworthy's throat.

Now, the great surgeon was so thoroughly cognizant that rubbing honeycomb on a man's throat for the purpose of expelling a cork from his windpipe was so useless, the idea was so supremely ridiculous, that had he been able he would have burst into a fit of laughter. He did the next thing; he laughed inwardly. Whether this internal mirth relaxed the muscles or his coughings had by this time loosened the cork, or both, no man, not even the great surgeon himself, could tell, but the fact remains that the stopper slipped from its place, and the patient spat it out on the floor.

For a few minutes the relieved man was so overwhelmed with congratulations that he was unable to get in a word. The village doctor showed a more than ordinary interest in his patient by sinking into a chair and drawing a few long breaths of relief. As soon as Dr. Kenworthy could escape from a clamor of congratulations he said to the village physician:

"Doctor, I have practiced and taught surgery for thirty years. I am familiar with every newly discovered device for relieving a patient from an obstruction in the larnyx or the esophagus, but never have I before heard of rubbing the patient's throat with honey. Will you kindly inform me of the connection between the remedy and the cure?"

"Dr. Kenworthy," replied the village doctor, "you do not seem to recognize me."

The surgeon took from his vest pocket a nearsighted glass and surveyed his preserver.

"Upon my word—you are not—you cannot—be"—

"Yes, I am. I listened to your address to our class the day we were graduated, and I have not forgotten your advice never to cease applying some device to a patient in danger, no matter how little connection it might have with the disease as a remedy."

"Young man," replied the great surgeon, "you possess the principal faculty needed in your profession. You could retain the confidence of a corpse. Come back with me to civilization. I will run you into my practice, which I expect to turn over to some one as soon as I return."

"Is Elsie married, doctor?"

"No; she's waiting for you. She will go with the practice."

"I'll be ready to leave on the next train." ANNE ATWOOD.

MR. M'LEOD

There is a flutter among the elite of Newport society. There are people who have spent years fawning, flattering, pushing, even at critical moments "putting on the screws" in the case of some stubborn insider, until they have broken down the barrier and secured an entrance into the golden circle. And now comes a young man whom nobody knows and nobody vouches for and walks right in.

Donald McLeod, with Scotch antecedents and Canadian connections, appeared one morning at Newport, was driven to a hotel and the same evening was seen at the soiree of Mrs. Van Blinkheisen, in whose veins flows the bluest blood of the old New York Dutchmen and in whose coffers are deeds to acre upon acre of Manhattan Island real estate. No one dared question her right to introduce him. All treated him with scrupulous politeness, but no one slapped him on the back and said, "Old man, command me for any invitation you want." Mrs. Van Blinkheisen, led him to several of the young ladies whom it would seem desirable for him to know, but the moment her back was turned they proceeded to freeze him from their presence.

It so happened that Miss Adele Mainwaring, a young lady whose family had been well and favorably known in New York many generations and who for this reason was somewhat fond of snubbing the wealthiest of the social leaders, noticed the slights put upon the Scotch-Canadian and, yielding to a natural antagonism for the descendants of those whose ancestors used to sell her ancestors garden truck, took him up and danced with him three times, holding her head very high the while, as much as to say, "Whoso wishes to knock a chip off my shoulder let her do so." When the evening was over and the young man asked permission to call upon her, she gave her consent, though she had no especial desire to receive him. The truth is that an evening entertainment is not a place to judge of a man's intellectual parts, and Miss Mainwaring had as many friends as she wanted.

When, however, she came to pass an afternoon in Mr. McLeod's company in one of her own little parlors, she was not long in discovering that he knew more on any one subject than she knew on all put together. This was somewhat surprising to her, for she was considered, and justly so, a very intellectual girl. She found him rather reticent and much more prone to listen to her than to talk himself. But there was something in the quiet way he sat and permitted her to pour things into his ear that pleased her.

Though Mr. McLeod's stay at Newport was brief, it was productive of a great deal of trouble. Some of the girls who had slighted him took Miss Mainwaring's acceptance of his attentions as a personal affront to them. This led to social skirmishing which soon blazed into open war. Mrs. Van Blinkheisen was much blamed for having introduced "the fellow," but on account both of her blue blood and her vast wealth she was unassailable. Then society was suddenly further startled by a report that Miss Mainwaring was about to throw herself away on "that Kanuck who showed no signs of even being able to wear good clothes."

"Excellent match," exclaimed all the girls who had quarreled with her. "She'll disappear from society and in time sink to where she belongs—a tenement house."

It was true that Miss Mainwaring had given the stranger her heart, but she hesitated to bestow her hand on one who did not seem inclined to disclose his identity. She was something of a stickler for blood and, being without any income in her own right, felt it necessary that if she married her husband should be able to support her in fair style. McLeod told her that he could at least give her a home and that he fancied his ancestors were quite as good as hers. Finally he gained such an influence over her that she was ready to accept him as soon as he should make known his antecedents, his family and his financial condition. He seemed in no hurry to satisfy her, and against her better judgment she surrendered unconditionally.

One afternoon Mr. McLeod was sitting in the casino, people passing and repassing, some giving him a slight nod, others not even a recognition. Several "bloods" were standing in a group, with their backs to him (intentionally), when they heard a cheery voice behind them say:

"Hello, Toots! You here? I thought you were dancing another dance on the governor general."

The party turned and saw Lord Buckthorne, a recent arrival from London.

"Good morning, gentlemen," said Buckthorne. "You know my friend, Melrose—the Marquis of Melrose? He's the right hand man of the governor general of Canada."

The secret was out. Melrose to escape social notoriety had confided his identity to Mrs. Van Blinkheisen alone and incidentally had won the heart and hand of Miss Mainwaring, who first heard the news of her lover's position from his friend and after her engagement.

Lady Melrose occasionally visits Newport and doesn't fail to snub the snubbers of her once incognito husband. However, since he is now rising to the more important positions in the British diplomatic service she has very little time to devote to her old enemies, who hate her the more bitterly the higher she rises. As for Melrose, he has long ago forgotten the Newport incident and is very fond of America.

F. A. MITCHEL.

Brains Versus Looks.

Simeon Ford, humorist and hotel man, is not the handsomest person in the world, and it shows on him very plainly, though it doesn't worry him at all. On one occasion, after he had made a particularly happy speech, a listener was complimenting him.

"How the dickens do you do it?" he asked.

"Oh, I don't know!" replied Mr. Ford. "It's just the way I think. I suppose when the Lord made me he put the funny side of my brain out."

"Well," said the other, still admiringly, "he sure didn't put the pretty side out."—New York Times.

The Laziest Man.

"Look here, son," exclaimed the hustling father, "yeou be the laziest man in this here county. I oughter ship yeon clean off the farm; but, being that yeou be yeour mother's pet, I'll give yeou thirty acres of land as a start."

"Cyan't yeou do it for me, pop?" drawled the lazy offspring.

"Cyan't I do what?"

"Cyan't yeou plow it up?"—Tarrytown News.

No Cause to Worry.

"I see," said the landlady, "that a Washington scientist has discovered that strawberries make people commit suicide."

"Never mind," replied the star boarder, "your conscience will never have a chance to trouble you on that score."—Chicago Record-Herald.

THE FARM HAND'S IDEA.

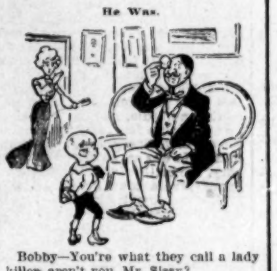
City folks are goin' to the mountains and the seas,
For they think that they've been workin' and had ought to have some ease;
They're shuttin' their fine houses, and they're huntin' other scenes;
Some folks don't know when they're lucky or what bein' tired means.

They've mersly been a-settin' down at desks day after day,
While some other folks was busy hoein' corn or pitchin' hay;
They've been leanin' over counters in the shade up there in town
Instead of hoein' taters where the sun's a-boilin' down.

Laws! If I lived in the city 'mongst the things to see up there,
Makin' money by the bushel and with costly clo's to wear,
You can bet nobody'd catch me packin' up to go away;
Some folks don't know when they're lucky, and that's all I got to say.

—Chicago Record-Herald.

He Was.



Bobby—You're what they call a lady killer, aren't you, Mr. Sissy?

Mr. Sissy (complacently)—Ah, d'ye think so, Bawby?

"You must be. Sister Ethel said that after you left last night she nearly died laughing."

A Very Close Call.

"I stuck to my engine, although every joint ached and every nerve was racked with pain," writes C. W. Bellamy, a locomotive fireman, of Burlington, Iowa. "I was weak and pale, without any appetite, and all run down. As I was about to give up, I got a bottle of Electric Bitters, and after taking it I felt as well as I ever did in my life." Weak, sickly, run-down people always gain new life, strength and vigor from their use. Try them. Satisfaction guaranteed by R. R. BELLAMY, druggist. Price 50c a bottle.

A WOMAN TO BE PRETTY

Must Have Luxuriant and Glossy Hair, No Matter What Color.

The finest contour of a female face, the sweetest smile of a female mouth, loses something if the head is crowned with scant hair. Scant and falling hair, it is now known, is caused by a parasite that burrows into the scalp to the root of the hair, where it saps the vitality. The little white scales the germ throws up in burrowing are called dandruff. To cure dandruff permanently, then, and to stop falling hair, that germ must be killed. Newbro's Herpicide, an entirely new result of the chemical laboratory, destroys the dandruff germ, and, of course, stops the falling hair, and prevents baldness. Sold by leading druggists. WILMINGTON, N. C.

SUNDAY MORNING JANUARY 10.

THE UNITES STATES' TREATY WITH CHINA.

Ratified by the Emperor of China—State Department Will Make Every Effort to Exchange Ratifications.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

PEKIN, January 9.—The Chinese Emperor has ratified the American and Japanese treaties of commerce with China.

WASHINGTON, January 9.—The State Department, with the concurrence of the Chinese authorities, will make every effort to secure a speedy exchange of ratifications of the new treaty with China. The treaty will be forwarded to the United States from Pekin and with ordinary diligence in its dispatch should be in Washington about six weeks hence.

The exchange must take place in Washington between Secretary Hay and Sir Chen Tung Liang Cheng, the Chinese minister here. After that ceremony the treaty will be proclaimed by the President and a date set for its provisions to take effect.

Not the slightest difficulty is expected at the State Department in putting into operation the sections of the treaty providing for the opening to American commerce the new ports of Mukden and Antung. The President has prepared for this by submitting estimates to Congress for the salaries for consuls, and nominations will be sent in very soon. On their confirmation the consuls will proceed to Pekin, present their credentials, secure their exequaturs, and repairing to their posts will open consular offices, ready to clear American merchant ships for the first time from interior Manchurian ports.

China Neutral.

PEKIN, Jan. 9.—The Japanese minister to China and Prince Ching, the grand secretary, had a long interview here yesterday and discussed the prospects of war between Russia and Japan. Prince Ching announced that China had decided to maintain neutrality and expressed great interest in the nature of the Russian reply recently transmitted to Japan. M. Uchida was non-committal on this subject. It is reported here that Japan is chartering many more commercial ships for use as naval colliers and supply vessels.

War Before Spring.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—A Pekin dispatch to Reuters Telegram Company says:

"According to trustworthy diplomatic information received here the Russian reply, though conciliatory in tone, is unsatisfactory in substance.

"Japan, it is further stated from the same source, desires to obtain further delay in order to complete her preparations, and will, therefore, continue the negotiations. The prospects of war before spring continue very strong."

STOCK EXCHANGE ON FIRE.

Building Filled With Smoke and Telegraph Service Interrupted—Caused by Imperfect Insulation.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—Fire early today was discovered in the new Stock Exchange building, and because of defective fire alarm boxes the fire department was delayed in arriving. In the meantime the building was threatened with serious damage, and a messenger of the Western Union Telegraph company was overcome by smoke. The fire broke out in the cable room of the Western Union Telegraph Company and was discovered by messengers. It was thirty-five minutes after the blaze was discovered when the department arrived. The fire was caused by the burning out of insulations. The building was filled with smoke and the firemen could work only in relays. The telegraph service in the exchange was interrupted. The money loss is small.

Though the damage was so slight the effects of the fire were felt throughout the financial district to-day, the telegraph system by which stock quotations and financial news is distributed being deranged and in many cases interrupted entirely. Cable service also was interrupted to some extent. The telegraph wires of the cotton, coffee and New York produce exchanges were also cut off by the fire. Scenes of great confusion took place there. Most of the exchanges suspended the floor rules and allowed boys from brokers' offices to go in and out to get the quotations. Many private wires from the exchanges to Chicago were also cut off.

RELEASED AND PARDONED.

Editors Mullen and Kates of the Street Car Strike Paper, the Opinion.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

RICHMOND, VA., Jan. 9.—W. H. Mullen and Sudney Kates, formerly editors of the street car strike paper, The Opinion, were released from custody to-day by order from the judge of the Hustings court; in which they were convicted.

The judge's action was followed by a pardon for the prisoners from the Governor. Mullen and Kates had served five days in jail for failure to pay fines of $250 each for publishing an article held to be libellous as against one of the street car officials. The judge issued his order on its being shown to him that the men were bankrupt. He did not know of the Governor's purpose to issue a pardon, nor was Governor Montague aware when he wrote the pardon of the action of the judge.

Blanche Boles, a follower of Carrie Nation, attempted to smash the large picture of "Custer's Last Charge" hanging in the historical room at the State capitol in Topeka, Ks., using an axe. Her objection was that underneath the picture was a line explaining that the painting had been donated by a St. Louis beer firm. Miss Boles was arrested and later admitted to bail.

JAPAN REPLIES TO RUSSIA'S NOTE

Desires to Close Discussion and Requires Answer Within Given Number Days.

CHARACTER NOT DISCLOSED.

Japanese War Spirit Stronger Than Ever. Greatly Encouraged by Attitude of British and Americans—Russian Warships' Movements.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

TOKIO, Jan. 9.—Japan addressed a note to Russia to-day through Minister de Rosen. Its character has not been disclosed, but it is said that Japan requires an answer within a given number of days. Whether the note mentions the time, making the document an ultimatum, or whether the time is intimated otherwise, is unknown. The government, however, desires to secure an early response and close the discussion if it should prove to be fruitless.

The attitude of the British and the Americans greatly encourages the Japanese war spirit, which is stronger than ever.

Despite the general impatience there is no public excitement here.

Sasebo (25 miles from Nagasaki) is full of officers and their families and friends, who are bidding them farewell.

The suggestion contained in a dispatch from Berlin of the possible partition of Corea between Japan and Russia meets with no acceptance here. The Japanese officials regard it as further evidence of German support of Russia.

The meeting of the elder statesmen has been deferred for a day or two.

The Russian warships which left Vladivostock recently are reported to have returned there, instead of proceeding to Port Arthur as expected.

Japan's New Cruisers.

GENOA, Jan. 9.—The Japanese armored cruisers Kasago and Nissin left Genoa to-day for Suez.

The Kasago left first. The Nissin sailed half an hour later, both apparently going in the direction of Naples, but no one knows what route they will take, even the commodore before leaving having acknowledged that they were in the dark regarding the instructions contained in their sealed orders. The general opinion, however, is that they will go through the Suez canal.

Much comment has been aroused by the fact that some of the vessels of the Russian Mediterranean squadron have gathered at Suda bay, north of the island of Crete, apparently awaiting for the departure of the Japanese ships.

PARIS, Jan. 9.—Official advices received here to-day further convince those in the highest authority that the Russo-Japanese war crisis has been averted, at least for the present, and that the situation is again brought distinctly within the lines of diplomatic adjustment. Reports, chiefly from Tokio, but also from St. Peterburg, give a clear view of the circumstances leading up to the sudden improvement in the situation. They show that the Russian answer actually reached Tokio the night of January 6th and proved to be the turning point. Prior to its receipt Japan had been making strenuous preparations for sending two divisions to southern Corea. The official reports establishing these preparations are beyond the slightest question, but the note received on the sixth, disclosed to Japan for the first time that Russia fully conceded Japan's paramount rights in southern Corea. Russia's concession thus gave Japan practically what she had been preparing to assert by force and, accordingly, military activity was suspended, as Russia's concessions made unnecessary Japan's forcible assertion of a paramount position in southern Corea.

The three days succeeding January 6th gave an opportunity to the authorities at Tokio to consider and recognize Russia's concession. Whether it will be satisfactory, the reports have not yet disclosed, but the suspension of military activity is regarded as removing the most dangerous aspect and as giving hope that Japan is likely to receive Russia's answer in a conciliatory spirit. It is not known whether Russia's concession goes to the extent of relinquishing her contention for a neutral zone across Corea, but it is understood that it relates chiefly to giving definite assurance of Japan's rights in southern Corea.

VIENNA, Jan. 9.—The Austrian-Hungarian Foreign Office has received a cable message from Tokio saying Japan has no intention of taking any offensive measures in Corea so long as the negotiations with Russia are going on. The officials and diplomats here are hopeful. They believe the chances of a peaceable adjustment are distinctly better, since the Russian answer apparently is more favorable than the early reports suggested.

HON. WM. J. BRYAN.

Arrived in New York on the Steamer Celtic—Met by Prominent Democrats.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—The White Star steamer Celtic, on which William J. Bryan is a passenger, arrived today. The steamer was met at quarantine by a committee of prominent Democrats, headed by former United States Senator Charles A. Towne, Melvin G. Palliser, Justice Samuel Seabury and Henry George, Jr.

Coming up the bay Mr. Bryan held a general reception. He declined to talk specifically for publication on the ground that he intended to write his experiences and did not desire all the impressions he had gained to be old before his own writings had achieved print.

Mr. Bryan said he visited ten capitals and a part of Sweden. He spent fourteen hours with Count Tolstoi. He also visited Max Nordau and Mr. Croker.

SHIPWRECKED CREW.

Supposed to be from the Italian Barque Famiglia Cavallo.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—The British steamer Evangeline, Captain Heeley, from Halifax, December 31st, for this port, passed Prawle Point to-day with a shipwrecked crew on board.

From the signals displayed it is supposed the men are members of the crew of the Italian barque Famiglia Cavollo.

What is considered the handsomest train in its service will be put on by the Atlantic Coast Line Monday, the 11th inst. It is called the New York and Florida special train, and will run from New York to St. Augustine solid.

RESPONSE MADE BY SENATOR SMOOT OF UTAH.

Denies Specifically All the Charges Brought Against Him—Case Will be Argued Next Saturday.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—The response of Senator Reed Smoot, of Utah, to the charges made against him was presented to the Committee on Privileges and Elections to-day by Senator Burrows, chairman of that committee. It was agreed that at the regular meeting of the committee to be held next Saturday the attorneys for Mr. Smoot and also for the petitioners should be heard. They will be expected to show precedents and authorities, and after they shall have made their presentation the committee will decide whether to go further into the matter by calling witnesses or dispose of it on the showing which will then have been made.

Mr. Smoot submits in answer to charges against him the following:

"This respondent is advised and avers that but two of the charges made against him in said protests, either directly or by implication, are such as, if true, could legally affect his right to hold his seat in the Senate. These two charges are:

"1. That the respondent is a polygamist.

"2. That he is bound by some oath or obligation which is inconsistent with the oath required by the constitution, which was administered to him before he took his seat as a senator.

"Both these charges respondent denies.

"As to the charge that he is a polygamist, the respondent says that he was married on the 17th day of September, 1884, to Alpha May Eldridge. She is still his wife and is the mother of all his children. He has never had any other wife and has never cohabited with any other woman.

"As to the charge that the respondent is bound by some oath or obligation controlling his duty under his oath as a senator, the respondent says that he has never taken any such oath or in any way assumed any such obligation. He holds himself bound to obey and uphold the constitution and laws of the United States, including the condition in reference to polygamy upon which the State of Utah was admitted to the Union.

"The respondent denies that he is one of said alleged self-perpetuating body of fifteen men, or that there is any such body of men; or that the followers or members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, or any of them, accord the right to said alleged body to claim supreme authority, either divinely sanctioned or otherwise, to shape the belief or control the conduct of those under them in all other matters, civil or temporal, or that said church or such alleged body claims orotherwise any such alleged rights or that said church or said alleged body, or any person or body exercises any authority or power to inculcate or encourage a belief in the practice of polygamy or belief in order to practice polygamous cohabitation, or that either countenances or connives at any violation of the laws of the State of Utah or of the United States, and this respondent, for himself in particular, denies that he is one of said alleged self-perpetuating body of fifteen men or that there is any such body; or that said church or any part thereof, or any person therein, inculcates or encourages a belief in the practice of polygamy or belief in or practice of polygamous cohabitation; and this respondent denies that he is guilty of polygamous cohabitation; or that he is a polygamist, or that he ever has been a polygamist, or that he has ever practiced polygamous cohabitation.

Mr. Smoot denies that he has ever connived at any violation of any law of Utah or of the United States, and declares that "since the manifesto of President Wilford Woodruff was issued in 1890, neither a belief in, nor a practice of, polygamy or polygamous cohabitation has either been taught or encouraged.

Mr. Smoot admits that the first presidency of the Mormon church is vested with supreme authority in all things spiritual and in all things temporal, so far as temporal things pertain to the affairs of the church. He denies that the first presidency or twelve apostles are supreme in the exercise of the alleged mandates.

It is admitted that the Mormon church made a rule in regard to its leading officials taking part in politics, but denies that this rule is fully or correctly set forth in the protest.

Mr. Smoot alleges that since the manifesto of President Wilford Woodruff, of 1890, the practice of polygamous cohabitation by those who were polygamous before, has been abandoned by many but continued by some for a time, and where continued it is on the sole responsibility of such persons and is subject to the penalties of the law.

It is denied that any body of officials either practices or connives at polygamy, or that Mr. Smoot or any body of officials sought to pass a law nullifying enactments against polygamous cohabitation. It is admitted that such a law did pass the legislature in 1901, but that many of the Mormon members voted against the bill, and that it was vetoed by the governor.

The charge that Mr. Smoot, from the high station of United States senator, would wage war upon the home is denied in strong terms. He agrees that the home is the basic institution upon whose purity and perpetuity rests the very government itself, and he alleges that he has as sacred a regard for the station of senator and for its duties as has any of the protestants or the most loyal citizen.

MRS. MAYBRICK'S CASE.

She Will be Released from Prison in 1904, But the Exact Date Has Not Yet Been Fixed.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—Referring to the statement published in the United States that final arrangements were made yesterday at a conference between Ambassador Choate and the Home Office officials for the release in April of Mrs. Florence Maybrick, the American woman under sentence of life imprisonment on the charge of poisoning her husband, it is pointed out that the status of the case is just as cabled to the Associated Press, by which it was announced on the authority of the Home Office that she would be released in 1904. The exact date of her release is not yet fixed.

Baroness de Roques says her daughter, Mrs. Maybrick, is decidedly in better health and gaining strength, now that she has the certainty of being released.

"All the sensational newspaper accounts relative to our business interests and future," added the baroness, "have not resulted in any profit to us. Quite the contrary."

STEAMER WRECKED ON PACIFIC COAST.

Bound to Victoria, British Colombia, from Port Townsend, Washington.

FIFTY PERSONS DROWNED.

Steamer Clallam, a New Passenger Packet, Sprung a Leak in a Furious Storm. Boats from the Ship Laden With Passengers Sunk.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

SEATTLE, WASH., Jan. 9.—A special to the Seattle Times, from Port Townsend, Wash., says:

Fifty lives were lost to day in the sinking of the fine new steamer Clallam in a storm that swept over the straits of San Juan de Fuca with resistless fury yesterday and last night. The vessel was a regular daily passenger packet. She made moderately good progress across the straits bound for Victoria until Trial Island, off the entrance to Thadbor, was abeam. Then a terrific cross sea was pelting the vessel, retarding her progress and making life uncomfortable for those aboard. Little fear was manifested, however, until word came up from below that the vessel was leaking. Investigation showed that the waves on the windward side had stove in a deadlight through which the water rushed in volumes, resisting all efforts to stop it.

Efforts to save the vessel being futile, the safety of the passengers, particularly the women and children, was looked after and all who desired were put off from the steamer in the ship's boats. The heavily laden boats were thrown about wildly in the choppy sea, and one after another, after succeeding in getting away from the vessel, were either capsized or swamped.

The terrible fury of the storm is attested by the fact that not a woman nor child of all those on board have lived to tell the tale.

In the meantime word had come from Victoria of the vessel's predicament, and a fleet of powerful tugs were dispatched from here to render assistance. The Richard Holyoke, in command of Capt. Robert Hall, was the first to reach the Clallam, which had by this time careened partly over from the inrush of water and had put the engines out of commission. The Holyoke reached the Clallam at 11 o'clock last night and about 1 A. M. succeeded in getting a hawser aboard, with which she started to tow the Clallam, when she took a heavy lurch and those remaining aboard were compelled to climb up the side to safety, finally reaching the roof of the pilot house.

Without a moment's hesitation the tugs' boats were lowered and the work of rescue commenced. At this point the tug Sea Lion, Captain Hunter, arrived and her men rendered valuable assistance.

Before all the struggling people had been taken off the Clallam commenced to break up and soon afterward went down. All possible assistance to the rescued people was given by the two ships masters and the tug hurried to Port Townsend. The passengers surviving and the remainder of the crew then took passage on the Dirigo, bound for Seattle.

W. H. Grimes, of Redmond, Wash., on board the Clallam, bound for Victoria, gives a concise statement:

"The weather was pretty rough," he said, "but we had no suspicion of danger until some one forward said something about life-preservers. I went forward to investigate and there learned that the Clallam was making water rapidly. The boats were promptly manned and launched and the women and children and such passengers as desired to leave were placed in them, competent crews being in charge. The boats made off from the steamer safely, but one after another they capsized, and we were helpless to render the occupants any assistance. They simply drowned before our eyes. In the meantime, crew and passengers were busy bailing and trying to stop the leak, but without success. The bailing was kept up, however, and soon we were overjoyed to learn that a big tug had hold of us. The tow boat started and made pretty good progress until it became apparent that the steamer was careening under us; then all hands went on deck and as the ill-fated packet listed we gradually crawled upon her exposed side, from where the brave fellows from the Holyoke rescued most of us."

Prominent among those known to have been aboard and accounted for is Homer Swayne, iron and steel plant promoter and owner of valuable iron properties in British Columbia. He boarded the vessel here and was not among the rescued.

Every woman and child aboard the Clallam perished. Within three miles of shore and at a time when it appeared certain the Clallam had been saved, a desperate effort was made to save the women and children in the life boats. They were placed in the first boat to leave the ship, which Captain Lawrence, a Yukon pilot, volunteered to command, and which was manned by deck hands. The frail craft went down within sight of the Clallam and a second life boat, filled with mail and passengers, and in command of Second Officer Currin was probably lost a few minutes later. Aboard the Clallam watchers saw waves sweep passengers from their hold on the seats and hurl them into the waters. Though the life boat was sighted later, diligent search has failed to find a trace of her. More passengers and members of the crew were lost when a third life-boat was swamped in an attempt to launch it.

Three passengers were picked up by the steamer Bahata who had fastened life-preservers around their bodies. They had died from exposure, and their bodies were brought to Seattle to-day.

The Clallam was a staunch new passenger boat on the Seattle-Victoria run. She left Port Townsend for Victoria yesterday noon, facing a terrific gale. When in sight of her destination a huge sea overwhelmed the little steamer smashing in her deadlights, flooding her hold with water, extinguishing the fires beneath her boiler and placing her at the mercy of a howling gale.

POSSIBLE PANIC AVERTED.

By Timely Action of an Actress at the Opera House in Bristol, Tenn.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

BRISTOL, TENN., Jan. 9.—Over 1,000 women and children packed the Harmeling Opera House at to-day's matinee performance and witnessed an unexpected scene. While Miss Lula Rumley, a member of the Ferguson Stock Company, was doing a specialty act she saw that the piano cover had become ignited by coming in contact with a gas jet. Bending low in her dance she grasped the cover and threw it to a stage hand who extinguished the blaze. Deafening applause greeted the action of the actress.

DEATH OF GEN. J. B. GORDON.

Commander-in-Chief of the United Confederate Veterans Passes Away—His Career in the Southern Army

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

ATLANTA, GA., Jan. 9.—Lieutenant General John Brown Gordon died at his winter home, near Miami, Fla., at 10:05 to-night. His fatal illness, which overtook him last Wednesday, was congestion of the stomach and liver, following an acute attack of indigestion, to which he was subject.

General Gordon was born in Upson county, Georgia, July 6th, 1832, of Scotch ancestry, which had prominent part in the revolutionary war.

Young Gordon graduated from the Georgia State University in 1852 and a few months later was admitted to the practice of law. Early in 1861 he enlisted in the volunteer Confederate service and was elected captain of his company. He rose rapidly by promotion to be lieutenant colonel of the Sixth Alabama infantry, in December, 1861. He participated in the struggle on the peninsula, had part in the battle at Malvern Hill, and was commissioned brigadier general, November, 1862. He was at the battle of Gettysburg, the battle of the Wilderness, at Spotsylvania court house. In May, 1864, was promoted to be major general and took part in the important battles which marked the closing scenes of the civil war. His bearing was characterized by boldness and a dash which made him the idol of his soldiers. In an official report of General D. H. Hill, General Gordon was characterized as "The Chevalier Bayard of the Confederacy."

When the hostilities were ended, he called his men about him and advised them to bear the trial of defeat, to go home in peace, obey the laws and rebuild the wasted country.

He has taken a prominent part in the councils of his party since 1866. He was a defeated candidate for Governor of Georgia in 1868, and in 1873 and 1879 was elected to the United States Senate Resigning that position in 1880, he participated actively in building the Georgia Pacific railroad. In 1886 and 1888, he was elected Governor of Georgia and in 1890 he entered again the U.S. Senate for the full term. Since his retirement from political activity he has devoted much of his time in lecturing, presenting to the North as well as the South his lecture upon "The Last Days of the Confederacy."

Since the organization of the Confederate veterans, he has held the position of its commander in-chief and his frequent re-elections to that position have testified to the warmth of affection in which he has been held in the South.

Gen. and Mrs. Gordon had been in Florida three weeks before his death. His health had been unusually good prior to his fatal attack. He had bought a Winter home at Biscayne three years ago and had since been spending a portion of the Winters there.

General Gordon's body will be shipped to his home at Kirkwood, near Atlanta, Ga., to-morrow night, leaving here at 8 o'clock, and reaching Atlanta Monday afternoon.

MR. OLNEY FOR PRESIDENT.

His Nomination Endorsed by Democratic State Committee of Massachusetts. Speeches in His Praise.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

BOSTON, MASS., Jan. 9.—The Democratic State committee to-day endorsed a movement in favor of having the national convention nominate Richard Olney for President of the United States. After speeches in praise of Mr. Olney's record had been made by Congressman William S. McNary, chairman of the committee, former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Charles S. Hamlin, of Boston, ex-Congressman John Crosby, of Pittsfield, and others, resolutions were adopted inviting Democrats everywhere to work in favor of such a movement.

The resolutions, which were passed without a dissenting voice, read:

"The Democratic State Committee of Massachusetts herewith places upon record its appreciation of the eminent services rendered the Democratic party and the nation by Richard Olney, and expresses its firm conviction that under his leadership in the coming Presidential campaign, important New England States will swing over into the Democratic column, and the national party will achieve a sweeping victory, ensuring a speedy reform of the abuses following a continuance in power of the Republican party and the re-establishment of those fundamental principles of government which that party has deliberately and flagrantly violated. To this end we invite the co-operation of the Democrats of New England and of the nation."

These resolutions were introduced by Congressman McNary, who classed Mr. Olney as one of the foremost Americans and foremost Democrat."

He thought that if the Democrats were to win this year, they must carry the Eastern States. It appeared, he said, that Mr. Olney was strong in New York and New Jersey, and that he would be acceptable to those States. New York not having any candidate, the nomination of a man from New England, and that man Mr. Olney, would have the immense advantage to the Democrats of establishing a large Eastern area where the scales could be turned in favor of the Democratic nominee. He believed Mr. Olney would be strong in Illinois and Connecticut.

Mr. Hamlin, in favoring the resolutions, referred to the advantages which would accrue from nominating a New England man.

Mr. Hamiln said, "Mr. Olney is a man of sterling Democracy and of rugged character. Under his leadership several States of New England can be counted upon for the Democrats. Under his leadership the Democratic party will sweep the country."
